

Natural trace mineral salt for your livestock

Redmond Natural Mineral Salt Ltd sells rock salt harvested from underground mines near the small town of Redmond in South Utah.

The salt is mainly pure salt (95% sodium chloride) it also contains many valuable trace minerals. Natural trace minerals that livestock need: Calcium, Potassium, Magnesium, Sulphur, Zinc, Copper, Iodine, Iron Phosphorous and Manganese.

These essential minerals are vital for the proper growth and development of your livestock. And because they are natural, the price of this salt is generally far less than salt with artificially added minerals.

Salt fits nicely with your feeding program, whether you are using bulk, bagged or block salt. Handling of the chunks is now very easy with our large pre-weighed super bags. Each bag has it's own individual storage container and can be easily moved with a fork lift or front end loader.

Salt is also available crushed and screened into four sizes ideal for any operation. All grades are available in bulk, in superbags, in plastic lined paper bags or in 50# burlap or poly bags. All contain the listed minerals.

Weather resistance

Salt in lump form offers more advantages over block salt than just minerals and low price. One factor to consider is weather resistance. Due to it's natural formation, chunks of salt shed rain better than pressed blocks do. Your livestock get more of the salt they need and you lose less to the weather.

Livestock preference

Try putting a lump of rock salt and a pressed salt block of equivalent weight together in a field. Weigh again in 30 days. Most customers report that their animals prefer the rock salt. Because the livestock prefer the rock salt they get all the valuable minerals they need and you save money over the cost of artificially mineralized salt.
